

MASTER CODE FOR CONSTRUCTION IS GOAL OF JOHNSON

Involves Upwards of 10,000,
000 Employees, It Is Said

A CODE FOR RETAILERS

Major Question of Price-
Fixing Also Being Faced

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18.—Master codes for retailers and construction industries involving upwards of 10,000,000 employees, today became the goal of Hugh S. Johnson, N. R. A. administrator as the bituminous coal code went to the White House.

Although the retail and construction codes have been eclipsed by the bitter fight over coal, recovery officials hold them even more important because they extend into every nook and corner of the nation. A master code for retailers, worked out by Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside, is now on Johnson's desk, with a code embracing more than a score of branches of the construction industry about ready for action.

In the retail code Johnson faces a decision on the major question of price-fixing—a question which may have to be answered finally by President Roosevelt.

Although Johnson has approved price control features in both the coal and oil codes, he refused to label them "price fixing." He has indicated he would approve a provision in a retail code forbidding selling below wholesale cost plus ten per cent.

Many other problems vital to the N. R. A. claimed Johnson's attention as he emerged from the coal code battle.

He plans to swing into the job of reorganizing the entire N. R. A. staff which has grown to embrace one thousand workers. Johnson must be prepared to enforce provisions of the permanent codes. The problem of Henry Ford, auto manufacturer, has been brought closer to the Recovery Administration. An investigation to determine if Ford is complying with the automobile code is expected to be made within the next two weeks.

The forthcoming buying drive and control of run-away prices also were problems, claiming Johnson's immediate attention.

Police were unable to find any actual eye witnesses to the shooting although Scarapit said he saw a black coupe with two men speed away as he rushed to DeOrto's aid.

ESCAPE INJURY

Bridgeport, N. J., Sept. 18.—A dozen commuters on the Pennsgrove to Camden local, of the recently amalgamated Pennsylvania-Reading lines, escaped with only a shaking-up early today when the last coach of a two-car train overturned one mile south of here about 6 o'clock this morning. The locomotive and first coach passed safely over a portion of the track, undisturbed by recent heavy rains, and high tides, but the last coach was derailed and overturned. The passengers were taken to a Camden Hospital by motorbus.

RESCUED MINERS GIVE STORIES

Wilkes-Barre, Sept. 18.—The four men workers who walked safely into the arms of loved ones when they emerged today recounted tales of their harrowing experience of "waiting for death." Of the six who were trapped in the Truesdale Mine of the Glen Alden Coal Company, one was taken out dead and another's life is despaired of by fellow workers. The four men who waded, swam and dug their way out of the dungeon of despair during a 14 hour entombment were still nervous today from the effects of their experience. They told of working their way to the highest apparent spot in the mine and of waiting until the water rose, almost paralyzing them with a threat of death. When the waters began to subside they resumed their groping. The first sign of light at the shaft was their greatest thrill.

AN APPRECIATION OF A PUBLIC SERVANT

In another column the Courier publishes a letter over the signature of Louis B. Girtton, addressed to the Republican voters of the borough.

It has been the business of the Courier for a generation, to take cognizance of the condition of the public business of Bristol, especially of its financial operations, and it can bear testimony to the fact that Tax Collector Girtton only touches too briefly on the actual conditions which have surrounded his office during the past three years.

Bristol, in common with other industrial towns in the country in the past three years, has had some of her industrial plants abandoned; nearly all of them have operated on short time, and the tax reservoir of the borough has been reduced by idle houses and home owners have been disadvantaged by reduced or no earnings, thus in many instances unable to meet their tax payments.

In the face of the fact that the Federal Government has a budget deficit of about a billion and a half dollars a year, when sovereign states of the union are defaulting on the payment of interest on their obligations, when countless boroughs, counties and subdivisions of counties are unable to meet interest and bond maturities, the Borough of Bristol, through its Tax Collector has found the money to meet every obligation incident to our borough government, and each year has ended with money in the borough treasury.

For thirty years prior to Mr. Girtton's taking office the Borough of Bristol experienced a steady growth in population and corresponding increase in assessed valuation, which increased revenue for public purposes. During the past three years, from a revenue standpoint, the reverse has been the case, and it is a tribute to Mr. Girtton's business acumen, tact and courteous handling of this trying situation that he has been able to collect taxes to meet the conservative expenditures of Borough Council.

It has been stated in a humorous vein by a financier that "it is a great deal easier to finance a surplus than it is a deficit." If this be true then Tax Collector Girtton is entitled to the appreciation of every citizen of the borough, and, incidentally, to the support of every Republican elector at the Primaries tomorrow, Tuesday, the 19th.

WANT TRIAL BY JURY

Two former employees of the Superior Zinc Corporation here have filed suits for damages against the corporation in the Court of Common Pleas at Doylestown.

The combined claims total $100,000, each suit being for $50,000.

Davis Robinson, Trenton, N. J., a former employee of the Superior Zinc Corporation, the defendant, in a statement of claim alleges that he was employed by the corporation from 1926 until October, 1931.

During that period, the plaintiff avers he inhaled dust particles and fumes to the extent that his lungs, bronchial tubes, internal organs and body became permeated and infected with the same.

He filed a claim of $50,000. According to the statement, the plaintiff requests a trial by jury.

In a second statement of claim, filed by John Facon, Bristol, the Superior Zinc Corporation is sued for the sum of $50,000. Both plaintiffs have the same attorney for their counsel.

Facon alleges he was employed by the corporation for a period of four years. He was, according to the statement of claim, subjected to certain dangerous, insidious and harmful agencies that were malignant and destructive to life and health in the human body.

BITUMINOUS HOLIDAY CONTINUES UNABATED

Despite Forecast, President
Will Sign Coal Code
By Nightfall

IN EFFECT FIVE DAYS

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 18.—The Pennsylvania bituminous coal holiday continued unabated today despite the forecast that President Roosevelt would sign the coal code before nightfall and despite indications that the H. C. Fricke Coke Company may abandon its traditional open-shop labor policy.

The "holiday," an unofficial walk-out, has been in effect since last Wednesday when mines in the Connellsville coke area were paralyzed as a miner after miner dropped his tools in protest against the delay in negotiating a code for the industry. Picket lines were formed early this morning in an effort to continue the tie-up of practically every mine in the Connellsville region. Even union leaders at Pittsburgh admitted the strike probably could not be brought to an end before Wednesday.

While strike leaders were sounding the battle cry of "no union recognition, no work" a statement by Thomas Moses, president of the Fricke Company indicated the softening of the Company's 40-year old anti-union policy. Moses said: "We expect to obey the law. We are not opposing the government; that never has been the policy of the Fricke Company and it is not its policy now. We are taking no antagonistic attitude."

Number of Cases Receive Treatment at Hospital

The middle finger of the left hand of Edward Margerum is being treated for an infection. The middle finger of the left hand of Richard Culbertson, Edgely, was amputated to the first joint, after it was caught in a knife at the Paterson Parchment Paper Company plant.

A boy of five years, Roy LaRue, Parkland, was struck by a baseball yesterday, suffering with concussion of the brain. The child remains at the hospital.

AN OPEN LETTER

The following open letter was addressed to the Republican voters of Bristol today:

Greetings:
Four years ago I was honored by the voters of Bristol in being elected their tax collector.

During these four years we have passed through a most trying economic period, making the payment and collection of taxes a problem surrounded by unusual difficulties for many taxpayers as well as for the collector.

So acute did this condition become in my case as to cause me to give up all other interests in order to devote my entire time to this branch of the Borough's business.

The disturbed economic condition to which I have referred, is at least in part still with us and I believe the experience gained in the past trying period qualifies me to serve the public more efficiently in the future.

With this thought in mind, I am calling your attention to the fact that my name will appear on the Republican Primary ballot for the office of tax collector to be voted for on Tuesday, September 19th, and will appear on the ballot as on the enclosed card.

I would greatly appreciate your vote and the support of your friends and would ask you to please take this card with you to the polls, to more easily locate my name upon the ballot.

Thanking you in advance for such consideration as you may give to my candidacy, permit me to remain,

Very truly yours,
LOUIS B. GIRTTON

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's cinema version of "When Ladies Meet," one of Broadway's biggest hits of the current season, will be the attraction starting tonight at the Grand Theatre. The Cosmopolitan photo-play version of the successful Rachel Crothers play was directed by Harry Beaumont who was given an unusually generous freedom in selecting prominent stage and screen artists to fill the principal roles of the comedy-drama.

The thesis of "When Ladies Meet" is based on the conclusions of what would happen when the wife of a philandering husband meets the woman on whom this husband is now lavishing his attentions. The plot achieves its originality on the fact that its situations are so ingeniously arranged that neither of the rival women is aware of the other's identity. They are unexpectedly brought together at the home of a friend and before long take each other into mutual confidence. When each subsequently discovers who the other is, the sparks begin to fly.

Miss Harding plays the wife in danger of losing her husband, and Miss Loy has the role of "the other woman."

For the first time in its 17 years of existence the Bucks County Colored Republican League convened in Bristol Saturday. Due to the inclement weather the original program had to be changed and the speech-making took place in St. James's Parish Building where refreshments were also served.

It had been previously planned to hold the event on Spruce street where a baseball game was to have been staged and other features of entertainment arranged.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT ATTRACTS MUCH INTEREST

Games Are Resumed After Being Delayed By Rain

MANY CLOSE MATCHES

The Municipal Tennis Tournament which was delayed several days last week on account of rain, was resumed on the Elks' Courts, Saturday afternoon. The last match in the first bracket, between Hampton Morris and Gene Clott, which should have been played on Wednesday had the weather permitted, was the first match played and resulted in a victory for Morris by the score 6-4, 6-1.

In the second round Andrew MacArthur defeated Wayne Fry 6-1, 6-0. Dr. J. Fred Wagner proved too much for his younger opponent, Wayne Warner, and in a hard-fought battle won by the score 6-3, 6-4.

Much interest centered in the match between David Landreth and Franklin Fine. Landreth had won the municipal championship twice in the years gone by and Franklin is one of the most promising young tennis stars of today. In a remarkable exhibition which included spectacular placements, cannon-ball drives and intricate net plays, Fine trimmed the former champion by the score 6-0, 6-1. "Alas, old age cannot seemingly comprehend, that bald heads and rheumatic joints are a precursor of retirement," said a fan.

Later in the afternoon, Fine and Dr. Wagner met in the quarter-finals second bracket, and once again old age was compelled to bow to the supremacy of youth. Fine won 6-0, 6-1. In the same round Hampton Morris with his spectacular base line game, defeated Andrew MacArthur, 6-2, 6-2.

In the quarter finals, interest centered in the Lawrence-Pearson match. Lawrence is the first seeded player. He was the first seeded player and acquired a reputation by reaching the semi-finals in the recent Trenton Municipal Tournament. "Bud" Pearson has for many years been one of the leading stars on the Elks' Courts. Shortly after the match began, however, it became evident that "Bud" was out-classed, and the story is told in the final score, 6-1, 6-1, in Herb's favor. The final match of the afternoon was played by Windus vs. Henry and resulted in a victory for Windus, 6-1, 6-1.

The doubles tournament got underway Saturday afternoon, when Herb Lawrence and Frank Fine defeated David Landreth and Ewald Henry, 6-2, 6-2.

The matches were resumed yesterday morning, the initial match being played between Thorne and Windus, the latter winning by the score 6-4, 6-2. This was a quarter-final match and accordingly the winner was advanced to the semi-finals.

In the afternoon, Windus who had been playing exceptionally good tennis, met Fine in the semi-finals, only to meet his Waterloo, being defeated 6-1, 6-1. "Herb" Lawrence proved a nemesis to Hampton Morris in the semi-finals, first bracket, and when the game ended the score stood 6-3, 6-1, with Lawrence as the winner.

Unusual interest centered in the finals match between Lawrence and Fine and a large number of spectators were present to witness the contest. Both young men have been playing wonderful tennis this last summer. Fine worked himself up to the finals in the Junior Tennis Tournament at Ocean City and Lawrence made a spectacular showing in the Trenton tournament. He also defeated Norman Swayne of George School, who for many years has been the recognized

DR. A. M. WITWER DEDICATES SUNDAY SCHOOL BUILDING

115 Witness Impressive Service at Hulmeville M. E. Church

SERIES OF MEETINGS

Two Floors to Accommodate
The Growing Sabbath School

HULMEVILLE, Sept. 18.—The new Sunday School building of Neshaminy M. E. Church was presented by the Board of Trustees "for the service of God," and dedicated by Dr. Albert M. Witwer "to the Holy ministry of education," yesterday morning, when 115 gathered for the morning service in the new structure.

The dedication service in charge of Dr. Witwer, superintendent of the North District, Philadelphia M. E. Conference, was a most impressive one, with the congregation members rededicating themselves as a portion of the service. Assisting in the service was the Rev. T. W. Smith, pastor. Presentation of the building was by Samuel J. Illick, president of the board of trustees, with the other officials of the church also assembling at the front of the auditorium.

Dr. Witwer chose as his text "Looking unto Jesus the Author and Finisher of our faith," from the 12th chapter of Hebrews. "We start these things with faith," said the superintendent of the North District. "This was not accomplished without faith in God and in His help." He then spoke of the men and women through the centuries who by faith followed God, the Author and Finisher of their faith.

"Out of spiritual centers like this where boys and girls are taught the elements of faith, they too are inspired to follow on, to challenge the world, and go out for the advancement of His kingdom," stated Dr. Witwer, who congratulated the building committee, the trustees and members on accomplishing the dream of years.

Baskets and bouquets of flowers, as well as greens, adorned the front of the new auditorium where at 10 a. m. 149 gathered for the Sunday School session, presided over by Superintendent Jesse C. Everitt. The Sunday School orchestra gave special numbers at this session. During the church service Mrs. Jennie Halk and H. Douglas LeSompt sang "Precious Hiding Place;" and the choir sang two anthems.

The third service of the day in the new auditorium was Epworth League devotional meeting last evening, led by Miss Elma E. Haefner. Instrumental duet was played by the Misses Letty Everitt and Ethel Vornhold; and Robert McCarthy pleased with a cornet selection.

The evening service in the church auditorium comprised a sacred musical, directed by Miss Clara L. Illick. The program included: Organ voluntary; song service, congregation; responsive reading "The Wondrous Christ;" prayer, the Rev. Smith; selection, orchestra; a sacred melody by the choir; piano and organ duet, the Misses Elizabeth Foster and Clara L. Illick; vocal trio, "Jesus, Rose of Sharon," Misses Grace H. Illick and Adeline E. Reetz, and Arthur McCarthy.

Cornet solo, Kimbel Faust, with Mrs. S. K. Faust, accompanying; vocal solo, H. Douglas LeSompt; piano duet, Misses Marie Hanson and Margaret Perry; vocal duet, Mrs. Halk and Mr. LeCompte; vocal solo, "Fear Not Ye, Oh Israel," Miss Reetz; reading, "Lentil;" Miss Elma E. Haefner; vocal duet, "Nearer My God to Thee," Mrs. Halk; anthem, choir; selection, "When Love Shines In," orchestra.

The primary department under superintendency of Miss Grace H. Illick, met for the first time in the basement of the new building, yesterday, which room is known as Epworth Hall. In the upper part of the new building, the intermediate department and some adults had classes; while the men's and women's Bible classes gathered for lesson study in the old part of the edifice.

Three other special services have been arranged for this week. Tomorrow evening at eight in the new building the Ladies' Aid will sponsor a program, with the Rev. Robert J. McBeth, a former pastor, as the speaker. On Wednesday evening the Rev. Walter H. Canon, Philadelphia, will speak, at which time the Epworth League will be in charge; while on Thursday the Rev. Alexander B. Davidson, pastor of Trevoze M. E. Church, will deliver the message. On this night the Sunday School will be in charge, and a surprise has been promised the scholars and friends. The Aid will serve a baked ham supper Saturday from five to eight p. m.

WISHING FOR FOOLS' GOLD

General Johnson prescribes an economic Keeley cure for the persons who implore the government to bring back the prosperity of 1928 and 1929. He prays that God will save us from any more prosperity of that pipe-dream substance.

It has been apparent since the crash of 1929 that this country was headed for economic trouble in the midst of its greatest prosperity. For years it skated on thin ice. Prosperity built alone upon inflated market values and an expanding foreign trade bought with our own dollars can not long endure, and when it goes it takes everything with it.

That expanding export trade of which much was made by those who claimed credit for it was a smoky dream. We got it by lending busted foreign customers lavish billions to buy our goods, when we were already on notice that they could not, or would not, pay even a portion of other lavish billions they already owed us. We were giving away both our goods and the money to buy them as fast as ships could carry them across the ocean, and then building here a bonfire of hope under our speculative markets from the warmth of the I O U's.

It is readily understandable why some years for the return of the old prosperity. They sold their goods for the cash furnished by the suckers who purchased worthless foreign bonds or floated those bonds in the United States at a handsome commission, bonus and split.

A RECORD FLIGHT

The Navy has chalked up a mark in the field of practical aviation that deserves more than mere passing notice.

From Norfolk, Va., to Coco Solo, Canal Zone, a distance of 2,059 miles, it sent six seaplanes in a non-stop flight. It was the longest non-stop mass formation flight ever made by any nation.

Five of the planes completed the hop in 24 hours and 55 minutes. The sixth, slowed down by engine trouble, arrived about an hour later.

Much of the credit for the achievement goes to Lieutenant Commander D. M. Carpenter, flight commander. Under the skill of the individual pilots, however, depended in a large measure the success of the undertaking.

It is such flights as this that count in judging the practical progress made by aviation. The planes apparently were on a routine mission to the Canal Zone. The flight was in no sense a stunt. The flyers wanted to reach their destination as quickly as possible, and held to their course once they were in the air.

The success of the flight helps to demonstrate how quickly military aid could reach the canal in the event of serious trouble in that section. It also goes to show that the aviation section of the Navy is operated by capable flyers. The country ought to be proud of the latest feat.

Echoes of the Past---

By Louise White Watson

Old-Time Customs

One of the old-time rural events that has almost passed out of existence, was the apple-paring frolic. The household rose even earlier than usual on these occasions, that the usual amount of work might be accomplished and out of the way before the neighbors came flocking in in the afternoon, armed with protective aprons and paring knives. Some had darning needles and heavy twine and as fast as the apples were peeled and sectioned, the "stringers" began threading the bits of apple, which were eventually hung up to the beams of the old kitchen for drying. Some might suggest this method as being the means of dust-catching, but trust those old-time housewives of entertaining any dust on apple-pie material. You have, many of you, heard your mothers tell of the fun they had when many nimble fingers attacked those immense piles of apples. The "do-you-remember" came to the front and the hearty laughter that lived with them through the hours caused one to forget the many days of toil contained in a year. Weren't they pretty, those country wives, alive to the occasion of preparing for the lean months of the year? And the maidens fair! Did not your mother relate how they saved the longest parings for the evening, just in case no one equally long, might be on hand? You know the husbands and lovers were to come to supper and spend the evening, working part of the time until work was shelved and then the truly social hour began for each and all. One pretty lass steps out on the floor, takes her apple paring, swings it around her head three times and then with a flourish, sends it forth to find its happy landing in the shape of some one's initial whom she is devoutly hoping, they by some means, may twist into a semblance of one of his initials. Happy day! It felt just right and so conscious is the twirler that she feels the blushes of happiness stealing to her cheeks. He claims her then, as his partner for the evening. Did you ever get the wrong one, the one you "fairly detested" as you warmly protested? "Oh, evening, no matter how bright the moon, I'm lonely," she says.

Barn-Raising

"Got your invite to the barn-raising yet?" questioned one of another. The day arrives. This is another occasion that was common some years ago. The community had been invited for raising the framework of a new barn. It was an occasion welcomed by all. Yes, there was a great deal of hard work for some—there always is in life—but there was ever the chance of showing off. How the muscles proudly responded when a show of great strength and agility were demanded, and how Polly, Ann and Sue were sure to be somewhere near as the shouts of command, answered by the boys with an alertness and comprehension that showed life contained much they could handle. Had you girls with your dimples and pretty aprons stayed within doors on that afternoon, there is guessing that some of those heavy-lifters would have felt a greater strain than they did when you shouted hearty approval. Wasn't it parallel with Katy Lee and Willie Gray? "And I'll carry, yes, I will, Katie's basket up the hill. Katie answered with a laugh, 'No, but you may carry half.' He who carries on ever carries his half and oftentimes more.

Today

Today big barns with solid lumber are rarely constructed. A few carpenters ably handle the job. One reads the cause which is as follows—synthetic beams and joists are made by spiking planks together, lapping joints and the result seems as strong and sufficient as the old-time solid timber pieces. But the modern method of building has done away with those frolics that saw man and wife, lad and maiden meet for a social hour that lived long after. Why those suppers, what didn't they include? The pomp, the style; the women flying hither and thither to show their handwork in the way of cooking. The jokes, the laughter, the full and free serving; the old kitchen aglow with pleasure, and perchance a dance awaiting the "doing the dishes." Lovers adorned with big aprons, begging to help in the drying of dishes and the girls chiding them for any faulty work. "If one can keep his feet still," began an old-timer, "when an accordion gets going, it ain't me. Come on, Mandy." And Mandy swings into line as young as the youngest.

Corn Husking

A middle-aged man was heard to say, recently, "Somehow I don't pep up like I used to." His wife was heard to say softly, to a neighbor, "It's being too much alone." What did she do but plan one of the old-time corn huskings. It was held in their big barn and the older generation was most cordially invited to attend and offer suggestions. One of the young men said, "Tell us something new. We all know about finding the red ear." Now, how did they know? Tradition opens wide her book and reveals the secrets of the past. They, the neighbors, discarded automobiles for that afternoon and Jerry and Tom, some horses, some mules, pulled the commodious vehicles up the lane and into the farm-yard. Rover and Shep hustled out to greet them barking half joyously, half questioningly as they viewed the strange procession. Costumes, similar to the olden days, bedecked the comers; lanterns gleamed here and there and the fun was on. Competition took hold and the fingers flew. Mother watched Dad. He was beaming. He fairly leaped into the occasion, and when the singing started—as singing always does, when groups get together—even Ma was astonished at the way Dad entered into it. "Dad!" she exclaimed, as she got him behind some of the stalks, "aren't you overdoing it? I thought you said you had lost your pep!" "Pep, nothing!" he almost shouted, "here let me get back where the fun is." And Mother smiled knowingly.

A Question

Isn't that the solution to many of our problems? The pep is there waiting to be called into existence but we allow some shadow, some notion to wrap the "drapery of the couch" around us. The old question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" comes forcibly back and one questions, "Why did I not take that one off, away where pep loves to dwell?" Why not resurrect one or more of those old-time customs that featured fun-loving and work-accomplishing occasions? There awaits one at this time of the year, the harvest moon and then the hunters' moon. Don't let the voices over the radio do all the singing about love and the moonlight. Get out into the moonlight of life and help in the singing.

HOLLYWOOD. . . . Leave it to dynamic Grace Moore to burst a bombshell. The grand-opera star makes the flat charge that the rigid diets of film beauties are responsible for half the divorces in Hollywood and spread illness and marital discord all over the world.

Scornfully, the blonde diva told me today: "If a woman starves herself and works hard all day at the studio, she has no energy left for her home."

What goes for Hollywood goes for everywhere else, declares Miss Moore, and she scores the cinema queens for starting the fad.

"They wield such tremendous influence," she exclaimed. "Women all over the world have tried to mould their bodies after the starved silhouettes of screen stars, and much suffering has come of it."

And all this from a woman who is herself fashionably slender, 10 pounds lighter than when she made the movie, "Jenny Lind."

Upon reading the NRA code designed to put more actors to work, W. C. Fields classically remarked: "Things are getting so tough that you can't throw a dummy off a cliff anymore. You have to use an extra."

Just exercise and don't eat foolishly, advises the diva. And not even her worst enemy would deny her terrific nervous energy.

The merry eye of Maurice Chevalier has fastened upon blonde Toby Wing since his petite country-woman, Jacqueline Frabelle, departed Hollywood for the East. Toby, who has just received her high school diploma from the Paramount school, has been out with the French star for many consecutive nights. And he's made her promise to learn French by the time he returns from Europe.

Seekers after movie titles, believe it or not, find the Bible one of their richest sources of materials. Jesse Lasky went to it for his most recent film, "The Power and the Glory." Before him, Cecil B. De Mille went to it for "Feet of Clay." "The Ten Commandments" and "The King of Kings." And D. W. Griffith was represented with "Broken Blossoms."

QUICK GLIMPSES.

Major Ernst Udet flew back to Hollywood for a single day to see the preview of his picture, "S. O. S. Iceberg." . . . Bert Kalmar, Jr., son of the song writer, has just presented Mae West with a portrait he did of her in oils. . . . Gary Cooper also has given a place of honor on his dressing room wall to a likeness made of him by Dorothy White, Paramount secretary. . . . The long feud between Buddy De Sylva and Lew Brown appears to be settled. The pair were lunching together at the Fox commissary.

Mary Brian is almost ready to move into her new house at Toluca Lake. Bing Crosby will be her neighbor on one side and Jim Tully on the other. . . . The Wera Engels-Ivan Lebeeff friendship is progressing famously. . . . Mrs. Alexander Leftwich (Patricia Ellis' mother) has been colony-clubbing with David Blankenhorn, former husband of Irene Rich. . . . Loretta Young and Spencer Tracy are seen about too—the last time at the Montmartre Cafe. . . . And you'd laugh to hear the name of the actress who recently ordered a night-club waiter to bring her crepe-suzette and beluga caviar for dessert.

TRIO, DIAMOND BATTLES, INTEREST SPECTATORS

Turner Ashby gave a brilliant exhibition on St. Ann's field yesterday afternoon as he struck out 21 batters to aid the Jefferson A. C. to defeat the Triple A. of Philadelphia, 3-1. Ashby allowed the losers but four hits and passed but two batters.

"Bud" Wright's single in the eighth inning, scoring W. Tomlinson and Tosti, proved to be the winning punch of the game. The other Mules' tally came as the result of a hit by McCafferty and Tosti's double. Hits by Sarano and DeMarco scored the visitors' only run.

The White Elephants brought their baseball season to a close on the Bath Road diamond yesterday by defeating the Wrightstown A. C., 3-2. A tally in the ninth frame brought victory to the Bristol club. Thompson drove in the winning tally with no one out. The fray was the third and deciding match of the three-game series between the clubs.

"Wee" Williams, first-sacker for the Elephants, was injured in the fourth inning and retired from the game.

Edgely A. C. hit the ball hard on their field yesterday as they downed the Dixie All-Stars, 8-5. The winners made a total of fourteen hits, while the colored club could amass only seven.

Joe Kohler fanned ten batters for the winners and did not issue a pass. The five tallies scored by the Dixie Stars came as the result of two costly errors.

Freddie Hibbs swatted the ball hard for the Edgelyites, getting three hits in four trips to the plate. Leinheiser starred in the field.

Tennis Tournament Attracts Much Interest

champion of Bucks County. As a result of the superior playing of these two Bristol stars, the contest between them, which would decide the municipal championship, created more than ordinary interest. The match, which was to be the best out of five, was won by Lawrence in three straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3. Accordingly Herbert Lawrence becomes Bristol's tennis champion for 1933.

The doubles matches were continued on Sunday afternoon. Sam Pearson and Bud Pearson defeated Morse and Fagan, easily by the score 6-2, 6-1. In the match between Wagner-Thorne and Warner-Dries, the latter combination won 7-5, 1-6, 12-10. The last match of the afternoon was played between MacArthur-Foell and Gaffney-Ciotti. The former pair won 6-2, 6-2. The doubles matches will be continued this week and it is expected that the women's tournament will get underway tomorrow. The rapidity and smoothness with which the tournament is moving, is very creditable to those in charge, and is conclusive proof, that if it is desired to promote a larger tournament next year, the Elks' Tennis Club can arrange it more successfully.

Mermaids Go NRA All the Way

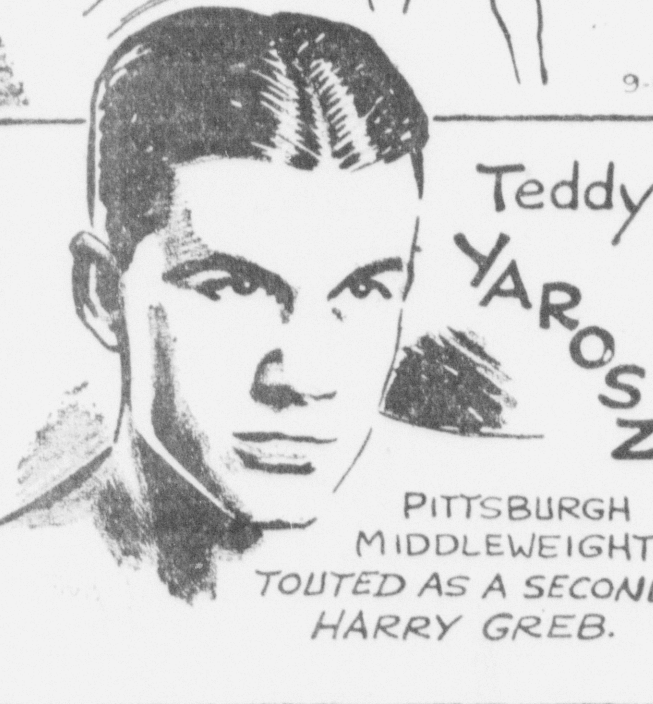

Florida's bathing beauties, on whose lovely shoulders rests the colossal task of providing eye-relaxation for tired northerners, have taken up the Blue Eagle in a big way. Here is a bevy of beach belles having the familiar insignia painted on their backs by Babe Davis, Miami artist. We'll say they do their part!

New Stars on Fistic Horizon

By BURNLEY

NEW RING STARS

PATSY PERRONI-YOUNG CLEVELAND HEAVY, HE LOOKED GOOD IN BEATING IZZY GASTANAGA--

Baby CASANOVA of Mexico--

-- SENSATIONAL MEXICAN BANTAM, WHO HAS KAYOED SPEEDY DADO, NEWSBOY BROWN AND YOUNG TOMMY!

IN boxing, as well as in other affairs, the public wants a new deal, and with the appearance of several sensational newcomers on the fistic horizon it looks as if the ailing cauliflower industry has really hit the upturn.
Certainly the recent Ross-Canzoneri lightweight title bout in New York aroused more interest than any other duel between little fellows in the past few years. The fans were steamed up over the sensational rise to the top of Ross, and they wanted to see if he could live up to his advance ballyhoo as the greatest lightweight since Leonard.
Several other divisions beside the lightweight have shown signs of perking up lately. In the middleweight ranks the rise to championship heights of Lou "Billard" helped a lot, while eastern fans are raving about a new 160-pound marvel from Pittsburgh who goes by the name of Teddy Yarosz.

Yarosz, who sounds like a sneeze but is really a pretty good fighter, recently leaped into the headlines when he pasted the highly capable Vince Dundee from pillar to post in a Pittsburgh ring. This was the first time the cagey Vincent had been licked in some three years, so this victory was quite a feather in the youngster's cap. In the Smoky City they have already tabbed Yarosz as a "second Harry Greb," and as a matter of fact he does box somewhat along the lines of the never-to-be-forgotten Pittsburgh Windmill.
The lighter divisions, from flyweight up to featherweight, to all intents and purposes have been dead for the last couple of years. However, out on the coast they are hailing a new bantamweight wonder who may bring back to the little fellows the palmy days of Joe Lynch, Pete Herman and Bud Taylor. The newcomer is Baby Casanova, terrific punching Mexican, who has scored knockouts over two of the best bantamweights in the world, Speedy Dado and Young Tommy, the latter being the 118-pound king of the Pacific Coast.

The light-heavy division has been in the doldrums since Maxie Rosenbloom took charge, but recently Maxwell was punched around by a little-known negro fighter yclept John Henry Lewis, so there may be some fun among the 175-pounders in the near future.
A new heavyweight threat has come to the fore in Eddie Meade's left-hooking Italian, Patsy Perroni. For this Perroni person looked like a right smart battler in cutting the hard-punching Izzy Gastanaga to ribbons in his first New York showing.
